Predicts Spanish Revolution.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Feb. 22.—A revolution in Spain and the eventual election of King Alfonso as first president of Spanish republic was the prediction made here today by Will Irwin, war correspondent, who has just returned to this country from Europe. Irwin also believes Germany will make a gigantic attempt to put France out of the war this spring and says he will not be surprised should the drive be made through Switzerland.

MYSTERIOUS BREAK IN WATER MAIN

Men Searching for it Downtown for Past Few Days Without Success—9,000,000 Gallons Passed Through Mains Thursday.

Over 9,000,000 gallons of water passed through the city water mains on Thursday which demonstrated beyond a doubt that a large amount of water is being wasted in the city at the present time. Part of this waste, of course, is due to breaks in the water system.

A mysterious break in the water main "somewhere downtown" has kept the water department force busy the past few days in a vain attempt to locate it. The men are using every means available to locate this supposed break but up until this noon had met with no success. This break is thought to have caused a large amount of waste in the water supply.

The water situation in Kingston remains unchanged with water pressure still hanging around the forty pound mark which, as has been stated before, is insufficient to supply the high points with water.

This morning a break on Main street was reported to the water department.

Big Doings at New Paltz.

Runaway Girls Found.

Thursday afternoon the police department received word form Port Jervis that Hattie Sass and her chum, a girl named Mooney, who ran away from Kingston a few days ago, had been located in Port Jervis. The department promptly notified the girls' relatives. There were no arrests made, as the relatives only asked the police department to locate the girls, which was done.

FREE HAND FOR THE PRESIDENT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Feb. 22.—The senate voted this afternoon to give the president a free hand, unlimited by law, in the control of the railroads during the war.

The bill, as it stands now, provides that the railroads shall be subject to all laws governing common carriers, insofar as such laws do not conflict with any orders issued by the president.

Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska offered an amendment to limit orders of the president to authority of law. The amendment was rejected 46 to 25.

GERMANS DRIVE FURTHER IN RUSSIA

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Feb. 22.—The German drive on Russia, both by land and sea, was under full swing today. The disorganized Russian armies are falling back everywhere." Military experts have expressed the belief today that even harsher peace terms than first proposed would be forced from that nation by the German militarists as a result of their success.

The German tidal wave is moving forward from Reval, the Russian naval base on the Gulf of Finland, on a crescent shaped line 500 miles long, extending to Rovno, the Russian fortress on the southern end of the line, which was captured with much booty. Petrograd was the objective and German forces were approaching Pskoff, only 180 miles from the Bolsheyik capital.

More than forty German warships, according to the Petrograd correspondent of the Express, have arrived at Reval, landing troops.

The German armies in the new invasion of Russia are commanded by Generals von Eichhorn and von Linsingen. The great stores taken by the Germans, announced yesterday with capture of nearly 10,000 officers and men, show that the Russian forces are not in need of supplies so much as they need a directing force.

It would cause no surprise here if Leon Trotzky, Bolsheviki foreign minister, were forced to resign. It was his vote that decided the council of commissionaires should accept the Germans' peace terms, after the Germans threatened resumption of war if the Brest-Litovsk terms were not accepted. Petrograd dispatches today indicated a wave of indignation was spreading against Trotzky.

LIMIT PLACED ON PRICE OF OATS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—Maximum prices for oats are in effect on the Chicago board of trade today. A limit of 93 cents has been placed on all transactions in March, April or May futures.

In the provision markets maximum prices also have been fixed, the limit on pork being $50.55 per barrel, for May and July products; $26.97½ on May lard and $27.25 for July; $26.20 for May ribs, and $26.55 for July.

The fixing of maximum prices was ordered by the board to prevent excessive profits and undue increases in food prices during the war.

CARL VISITS HISTORIC PLACES

Herbert Carl has received a letter from his son, Anderson Carl, who is a sergeant in the Ambulance Corps and who has been in camp in England for several weks. He was trained at Allentown, Pa., for a long time before going to England.

He writes:

"Still in England and feeling fine, waiting for something to hapen, such as orders to move along. But in the meantime we're taking hikes and making them doubly interesting by visiting points of interest.

"This is a very histogic part of England and we've seen a wonderful old cathedral, built long before Columbus ever saw America or our friend Ponce de Leon ever drank out of that spring we saw in Florida. The main street of the city was the original street of a Roman camp when the Romans visited England.

"Today we saw the ruins of an old castle and went through a college which is said to be the oldest in existence, and the customs and traditions that have been handed down for centuries were all explained to us by a gentleman who had everything right on the end of his tongue"

SCHEPMOES LIKES U.S.M. SIGNAL CORPS

Local U. S. Marine Praises Signal Battalion of Which He is a Member and Which Claims Record For Speed.

Combining his military duties with an advanced study of electricity which he believes to be equal to the electrical course taught in any technical school Corp. G. Schepmoes of Kingston is now a specialist in the work performed by the Marine Signal Battalion at Philadelphia. Schepmoes's battalion claims the record for mounting and operating a wireless outfit in the field in the remarkable time of one minute and twenty-seven seconds.

Sending and receiving of radiograms, repairing and wiring of electrical instruments and classes in electricity are all in the day's work for the Signal Battalion. Members are taught to splice cables, operate a switchboard, connect party lines, and repair batteries under the direction of a telephone expert.

Corporal Schepmoes says that the Marine Signal Battalion offers quick promotion to young men who have some training in radio, telephone, gas-engine, or other mechanical work. Volunteers who are enrolled for this work will not be sent to a training camp but will take up their duties immediately with the signal battalion. He advises any local boys who are interested to communicate with him at Philadelphia or apply to the postmaster, this city.

HOWARD WANTS BULL DURHAM

Except for High Price of Tobacco, Life on the Ocean Wave and in England he Finds Very Enjoyable.

John H. Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Howard, of No. 42 Broadway, writes from England to his mother as follows

Somewhere in England,
Jan. 31, 1917.

Dearest Mother:

Arrived safely, had a nice trip over. Did not get seasick at all and am feeling fine. Some of the boys were sick as the boat rolled fierce at times.

When you answer this let me know if you have heard anything of my allotment. It should have reached you by this time.

This is a pretty country over here. The weather is fine; there is no snow here now. We passed through ... on our way. The scenery was very pretty. I would love to spend three or four months over here.

Tobacco is very expensive here. They charge four or five times what it costs in the states. So about every two weeks have papa send me half a dozen packages of "Bull Durham." They cost 5c in the states.

There is nothing new just now. I couldn't feel any better than I do, and will take good care of myself. So do not worry over me. I will write you as much and as often as I possibly can.

How is papa and Marie? Give them my love; have each of them drop me a few lines each in your letter.

Will close with all my love. Don't forget to have papa send me the tobacco. Best love to all.

Your loving son,
JACK.

Answer soon; anxious to hear from you.

BETTS RESIGNS AS SECRETARY

Rumors That Entire Membership of State Council of Farms and Markets Will Resign Later On.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Feb. 22.—Charles H. Betts has resigned as secretary of the State Council of Farms and Markets.

This fact was learned authoritatively this afternoon. He will retain, however, the secretaryship of the state food commission, it is understood.

The Farms and Markets Council is in session here today and further important developments in the controversy which has been raging in agricultural and political circles over Governor Whitman's nominees to that body are expected late today. The resignation of all of the ten members of the council is one of the possibilities. In fact, it was learned this afternoon that Frank H. Jones, of Webster, Monroe county, has taken the inititative and tendered his resignation. Jerrod W. Hopkins of Monroe county is slated as his successor. At least four others have decided to resign.

The council spent all of the morning in executive session.

A geographical separation of the officers of the State Council of Farms and Markets and the State Food Control Commission was decided upon.

The council will remain in office in the state agricultural hall while the food commission will move to headquarters provided for it at 205 State street.

Representatives of various agricultural organizations in the state are scheduled to meet here on Wednesday. Fred Boshart, president of the New York State Agricultural Society; Seth J. T. Bush, president of the Western New York Horticultural Society, and S. J. Lowell, president of the State Grange, are among those who still attend the meeting. At its conclusion the farmers will have a conference with the governor and it is expected that he will give them the privilege of suggesting the name of a permanent secretary to the Farms and Markets Council to succeed Mr. Betts.

LOST SOLDIER CAPTURED GERMAN

American Troops in Chemin Des Dames an Indication of New Unity of Action on the Part of the Allies.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

With the American Army in France, Feb. 22.—An American soldier captured a lone German in a shell hole shortly before daybreak and after disarming the man brought him into camp.

The American soldier was in the Chemin Des Dames district shortly before daybreak when he became lost. After capturing his man, the American waited for day to break before bringing his prisoner into the American lines.

This is the first mention made in dispatches from France of American soldiers being in the Chemin Des Dames district. It shows that the Americans are operating side by side with the French in addition to having taken over at least one section as their exclusive territory. And in this very connection it shows that the recent decision of the supreme war council to coordinate the activities of all the armies along the western front already has been put into effect. This action will mean that should the Germans attempt any real drive at any point reinforcements will be swung into action regardless of whether they are American, British, French, Belgian, Portuguese or other.

It means, officials who know all that is now going on say, that national jealousies will not be able to interfere with the solemn business of defeating the Germans at all cost and political element in certain of the allied countries now will keep hands off from the plans of the fighting men.

3,000 POISONED IN ILLINOIS CITY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Peoria, Ill., Feb 22.—Health authorities here today are bending every effort toward discovering the source of the mysterious poisoning which has affected almost three thousand persons in Peoria and surrounding towns. Tests of the city water supply are to be made today by chemists of the University of Illinois and a thorough investigation of every possible source of contamination has been ordered.

Every doctor in Peoria who is not himself a victim of the mysterious malady is swamped with patients. No exact estimate of the number of victims has been made but it is believed certain that between 2,500 and 3,000 have been made ill. Ten per cent of the physicians of the city are included among the victims.

One theory that the authorities are investigating is that the water supply of the city has been poisoned by enemy plotters. Ordinary tests applied to the water here have failed to reveal any contaminating element and water company heads declare the water is "pure."

Thus far none of the cases have resulted fatally and it is not expected that deaths will follow the outbreak of illness. Vomiting and cramps are the chief symptoms of the malady. It is estimated that from one to four members in more than 1,000 families have been affected.

GERMANS PLOT STRIKE IN FRANCE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, Feb. 22.—A plot, hatched by the German staff, to cause a strike in munitions plants throughout France simultaneously with the beginning of a drive on the western front by either the allies or Germany, has been uncovered at St. Etienne, according to the newspaper Figaro. St Etienne is a munitions center near Lyons.

A German spy was arrested, the Figaro states, and papers found indicating the plans of the enemy for causing the industrial paradysis. A Swiss, a Spaniard and a Frenchman, the latter employed as a draftsman in one of the munitions factories, were arrested as accomplices, the paper stated.

MANNERCHOR'S 50TH BIRTHDAY PARTY

Kingston's Oldest Singing Organization Celebrates Golden Anniversary—Patriotism Dominating Note—Banquet, Oratory, Music and Dancing.

The Rondout Social Mannerchor, Kingston's oldest and most famous singing organization, Thursday evening appropriately celebrated its fiftieth anniversary at its rooms in Mannerchor Hall on the Strand with a banquet, addresses, music and dancing, and the golden anniversary will long be remembered by all who were fortunate enough to attend the festivities.

The predominating note of the entire occasion was patriotism with the flag bedecked walls and the service flag bearing one golden star in honor of Robert C. Iseman, a member of the organization, who is now serving his country in the army, to the singing of the Star Spangled Banner by the active members of the Mannerchor at the opening of the program.

The arrangements for the golden jubilee of the organization were in charge of Chairman Joseph Block, Arthur Stieler, Jacob Schantz, Elmer Burger, Henry Bloss and Peter Fuss and they deserve great credit for the fine program they had arranged.

Birthday Cake.

At the entrance to the hall the guests were met by the reception committee, Joseph Block, David Weil and Calvin Forst, and escorted to seats. The entire hall was practically taken up with the banqueting tables which were decorated down the center of the table cloth with red, white and blue streamers adding a gay and patriotic note to the color scheme. Huge bouquets of flowers also graced each table.

At the speakers' table was placed the big birthday cake. The cake, which was a work of art in white with gold trimmings, was the work of John M. Schussler, a baker employed by J. Leonard Salzmann of Sycamore street. In the center of the cake was a golden horseshoe. Mr. Schussler received many congratulatory words for his skill.

A Musical Program.

After the guests had assembled around the banqueting board the active members of the Mannerchor marched to the end of the hall where they were grouped around the piano and under the leadership of the musical director, Professor Jacob Stumpf, sang "The Star Spangled Banner" this was followed by singing "Saengergruss." "Das ist der Tag des Herrn" and "Wie's daheim war."

The male chorus of the Mannerchor were in excellent voice and sang with a dash and skill that evoked hearty applause.

The Address of Welcome.

Following the first part of the musical program the president, Arthur Stieler, gave the address of welcome. In brief well chosen words he extended a cordial welcome to the guests of the Mannerchor and expressed the hope that all would enjoy the hospitality of the society and that the event would long linger in their memory as one of the most social and entertaining functions they had ever attended.

The Banquet.

Following President Stieler's hearty words of welcome the banquet commenced and the following fine menu was served. Mrs. Daly catering.

Grape Fruit Maraschino Cherries
Soup a la Mannerchor
Celery Olives
Salted Almonds
Ulster County Roast Stuffed Turkey
Mashed Potatoes
Red Cabbage Red Beets
French Rolls
Ice Cream Assorted Cake
Coffee
Cigars Candy
Wine Vichy Water Beer

Mayor Canfield Spoke.

After the good things had been stowed away where they would do the most good cigars and cigarettes were lighted by the men while the ladies munched on candies and President Stieler presiding as toastmaster introduced the first speaker Speaker of the evening. President Stieler said he hoped the friends present would excuse him from saying much as he was a little hoarse. He then in a few brief words introduced the mayor who was heartily greeted.

Mayor Canfield in opening indulged in a play on words that brought hearty laughter and applause. He said that now he could understand why President Stieler was a little hoarse; it was because he would introduce a little mayor. The mayor then paid a high tribute to the Mannerchor which has had a long and illustrious history and in closing he touched the patriotic note in referring to Washington.

History of Society.

Joseph Block, the only charter member of the organization who is still an active member of the society, was the next speaker on the program and he gave an interesting history of the formation of the Mannerchor. The applause was prolonged as he arose to speak.

It might be added that while it was not only the golden jubilee of the society, the event marked the fiftieth anniversary of Mr. Block as a member.

Mr. Block, who is treasurer of the society, sketched the work of the society since its organization and gave a clear and concise history of the organization. The Freeman a few days ago gave a synopsis of Mr. Block's address.

Other Speakers.

The only address in German of the evening was that of Jacob Schantz, the honorary president of the society, who spoke briefly. Peter Fuss, secretary of the organization, also spoke briefly of the work accomplished.

Members Remembered.

During the evening three of the members of the organization were remembered by the society for their efficient and faithful work during the past year.

Mr. Block was presented with an honor diploma, the only diploma ever issued by the Mannerchor, while President Stieler and Secretary Fuss were presented with handsome gold lyre pins. Professor Stumpf was also surprised with being presented with a handsome baton.

The musical program prepared by the Mannerchor was brought to a close with three brief and well sung selections.

Schwalbach's Orchestra.

During the serving of the banquet Professor Schwalbach's orchestra rendered a fine musical program. During the entire program the orchestra struck a patriotic note by playing such appropriate selections as "Over There," "Send Me Away With a Smile" and "Keep the Home Fires Burning." As the orchestra would break into the well-known strains of the soldier songs the diners would join heartily in singing the choruses.

Winds Up With Dancing.

At the close of the program the banqueting tables were removed and the floor cleared for dancing which was kept up until an early hour this morning. Schwalbach's orchestra furnished the music for dancing.

A Social Success.

The golden jubilee of the Mannerchor was an unqualified success from every standpoint. The members of the society spared no pains to make their guests feel at home and have a good time. That their efforts met with success goes without saying. The golden jubilee will go down as a red letter night in the memory of all who were present.

COTTEKILL.

Cottekill, Feb. 21.—P. S. Jones who is home from Camp Wadsworth, Spartanburg S. C., called on a number of his friends in this village, who were very glad to see him. Mr. Jones has always lived in this village and was a great favorite at school where he was nicknamed "Perc." He spoke very pleasingly of Army life and from his looks it certainly agrees with him, weighing 180 pounds. He also praised the hospitality of the southern people. At the outbreak of the war Mr. Jones was employed at Poughkeepsie from which place he enlisted in the home company, being sent from there to Camp Meade and from there transferred to Camp Wadsworth where he is now stationed. On his return to camp the best wishes of his many friends go with him for his success and promotion.

A free entertainment will be given in the school house on Friday evening at 7:30. After the free entertainment light refreshments will be on sale, the proceeds of which will go for the benefit of the Junior Red Cross. It is hoped that everyone will turn out and assist in the good cause.

Four weeks from today is the first days of spring, however, we should think it about time that Czar Winter, like the rest of the crowned autocrats should step down and out.

KINGSTON, N. Y., FEB 22, 1918.

In celebrating the holiday known as Washington's Birthday, millions of Americans today enjoyed the privileges and rights not accorded to the people of any other nation on the earth They owe such privileges and rights in part at least to the fact that George Washington was born. We know the War of the Revolution was right, not because we won it, but because it was started to establish right principles, and fought to a finish until those principles had become embodied in the foundation of our government. Civilization, art, science have made tremendous strides since the War of the Revolution was decided at Yorktown. Comparing the bloodiest days of the Revolutionary War with the ordinary occurrences of the world war in which we are engaged today, can any student of American history point out any similarity between what the American colonies regarded as British oppression and tyranny and what they regard today as Teutonic oppression and tyranny as practiced in Belgium, France, England, Russia and even in the United States? Is there any comparison between blood-thirstiness then and frightfulness now? Great Britain at the time of the Revolutionary War was as powerful an empire among nations as Germany was when Belgium first was invaded. American history is filled with instances of British gallantry and consideration for noncombatants, women and children. In our own Civil War the same condition was found among soldiers both of the North and South. In the world war today can the same condition anywhere be found among the men officered by the Prussian military machine? We know what privation and suffering Washington and his soldiers endured that the American colonies might be free of what was considered oppression in those ancient days when men had less opportunity for civilizing influences than they have today. Could they today speak their mind on Prussian oppression would they advise America quietly to lay down her arms and surrender to the Kaiser?

FIGHTING ALONE.

Speaking before delegates who organized the New York Federation of Agriculture at Syracuse several days ago, Seth J. T. Bush, secretary of the new organization, denounced the activities of Food Administrator Hoover and announced that among the objects for which the Federation was formed was "to enable farmers to speak with a unified voice on all matters of great public concern."

Just why should the farmers be "unified on all matters" any more than lawyers or hod carriers? True, they are the cereal and vegetable food producers of the world, but the lawyers try our law suits and the hod carriers carry brick for our houses and stores; the carpenters perform an important part of our building operations, the railroad employes aid in the movement of people and commodities which makes it possible for farmers to market their produce. Every business and every trade is so united to every other business and trade and so dependent on it that the line which places any rank of workers in a class entirely independent of every other class has never been determined

Two classes of workers are very much in the public eye at the present time because they want to "speak with a unified voice on all matters of great public concern." They are the farmers and the shipyard workers. Railroad workers in some lines have shown a similar inclination, but recognizing the fact that under Government control of the railroads they have become part of the Government itself, they have buried their differences with their fellow men and are showing a spirit of commendable patriotism. Because higher prices would not be guaranteed to them by the Government, farmers in certain sections have been threatening to plant less than their usual crops in the face of a world famine, and shipyard workers are even yet delaying necessary ship construction without which it will be impossible to move troops and supplies to France, where both are imperatively needed and without which world commerce cannot be renewed after the war. If the farmers and wage-earners of those sections of Russia which have been annexed by Germany could advise their American brothers of the same craft, would their advice be to help the Kaiser or to make extra efforts to increase production of any kind which will enable America to continue our struggle against German frightfulness? As they toil to pay in taxes the indemnity demanded by Germany, which eventually must be paid by those who toil, they must regard their American brothers as overblessed by a kindly providence or fate.

The farmer cannot say he will withdraw to the bounds of his own farm or remain only within his own community or deal only with other farmers. He must play his part in the world's game of commerce, barter and business. So also must the shipyard worker, the railroad man and every other worker. Each is dependent on all other classes and no matter how much temporary advantage may be gained by unprincipled methods, there comes finally a day of reckoning. The possession of money did not help the millionaire to obtain coal during the recent shortage any more than the wealth of Croesus will help the coal baron to obtain food if the world suffers famine; the advantage of higher wages obtained at the muzzle of a strike will not help the shipyard worker to live if the farmer raises no crops any more than higher prices for his produce will be of benefit to the farmer if the war is prolonged indefinitely through failure of the shipyard workers to construct ships to carry soldiers and supplies to France. Whoever obstructs instead of stimulating production is as surely a secret cohort of the Kaiser as though he received a salary from Berlin.

Until the world is made safe for democracy by making America safe from German aggression from beyond and German assassination within our borders, business and labor must be guided by higher principles than self interest, and the sooner that both selfish capital and selfish labor realize that patriotism instead of self will furnish the stimulus that will carry production to successful expansion, the end of the war will be that much nearer. For any class or section to assume aloofness and attempt to build an impenetrable wall around itself would be just as sensible and based on as much patriotism as for our soldiers to say, "We will fight for our own liberty, but not yours." Such a statement by a soldier would be everywhere regarded as treason; such an attitude by anyone is nothing less.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"Where did he acquire his skill at diplomacy?" "Married happily three times."

"Lots of kings out of work now." "Yes, and judging from results, I am inclined to think I have hired several without knowing it."—Judge.

"Officer, if I stay on this street will it take me to the public library?" "Yis, mum But not unless ye kape movin', mum."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

"He offered to let me in on the ground floor." "Well?" "From the drop the stock took after I bought I must have been let on on the roof."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

She—"Do you think that people are less romantic and imaginative after they are married?" He—"I don't know about the romantic part of it, but if they are going to try to explain everything, they've got to be more imaginative."—Boston Transcript.

"I understand your servant has notified you that she is going to quit work." "Not exactly," said Mrs. Crosslots. "She hasn't been working to speak of for some weeks. Now she has announced that she doesn't intend even to associate with us."—Washington Star.

Jump Off the Tracks.

"Now, Thomas," said the foreman of the construction gang to a green hand who had just been put on the job, "keep your eyes open. When you see a train coming, throw down you tools and jump off the tracks. Run like blazes!"

"Sure!" said Thomas and began to swing his pick.

In a few minutes the express came whirling along. Thomas threw down his pack and started up the track ahead of the train as fast as he could. The train overtook him and tossed him into a ditch. Badly shaken up, he was taken to the hospital, where the foreman visited him.

"You blundering idiot!" said the foreman "Didn't I tell you to take care and get out of the way? Why didn't you run up the side of the hill?"

"Up the side of the hill, is it, sor?" said Thomas through his bandages on his face. "Up the side of the hill? By the powers, I cannot bate it on the level, let alone runnin' up hill."—New Ideas.

Went Farther Then.

The subject of the physical prowess of George Washington was being discussed.

"He threw a dollar across the Potomac river once," asserted Frank McKindles.

"Yes, but a dollar went farther in those days than it does now," retorted Charlie Bell.—Detroit Saturday Night.

Walked In.

A drunken man threw his arms around a telegraph pole and then began to feel the pole with his hands. Round and round he went. Finally he gave it up and muttered:

"No use. Walled in."—Ladies' Home Journal.

ESOPUS.

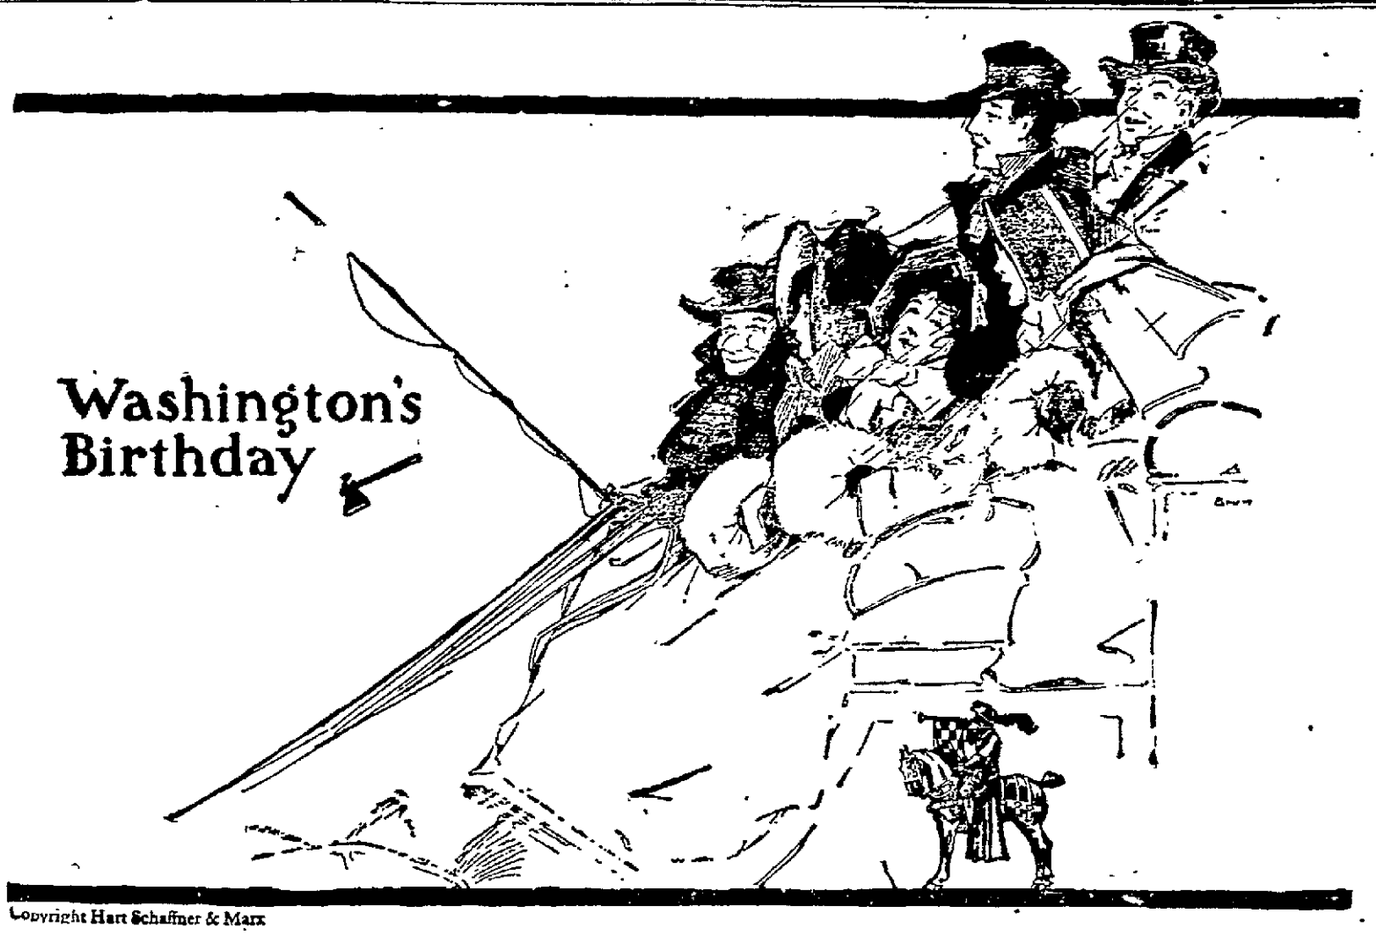

Esopus, Feb. 21.—Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Mott returned from their visit to New York city on Tuesday.

John Anderson, formerly of West Esopus, now has a position with the Wells Fargo Express Co. in New York city. His many friends wish him succes in his new vocation.

The snow is gradually disappearing, and it is very satisfactory to see it go in this manner instead of with a rush during a heavy rainfall, as this would cause no end of trouble with over-flowing drains, flooded cellars, etc.

S. E. Mott has been supplying customers with chestnut coal during the past two weeks, and they are resting much easier since the arrival of the loaded cars. Many have been obliged to burn wood entirely. Messrs. Johns and Sheldon have been able to supply the latter article in sufficient quantities to keep "all the fires going," so we really ought to consider it a fortunate circumstance to dwell in a vicinity where wood can be obtained during this crisis.

The Rev. J. J. Lyons will take for his subject next Sunday evening, February 24, "The Character and Personality of George Washington." We think it will repay any who will attend and listen to this discourse as Mr. Lyons preaches in an interesting and instructive manner. The hour of service is 7:30. Seats are free and all will be welcome.

One hundred and eighty-six years ago Washington was born

AT this time every year you are reminded of the old story of George Washington and the cherry tree.

But this year let us think of George Washington at Valley Forge and at Yorktown, when he was laying the foundation of our United States on the principles of freedom and democracy.

Today we are defending these same principles and in the heart of every American is the loyal resolve that the life of Washington shall not have been lived in vain. Millions in men and billions in money, we are ready to give to such a cause.

Commemorate him this day---and do your part, whatever it may be.

Spoiled Children.

On a crowded interurban car the day after Christmas there was a jostling, pushing, complaining bunch in the aisle. There was just one woman in the bunch who was not complaining, and she was good to look at, being cheerful, pretty and perfectly clothed, from her russet shoes to the brown hat that topped her gold-brown hair. Her lovely brown suit was coming in contact with all sorts of shabby clothing, but she chuckled, and remarked to the strange woman next to her: "What spoiled children we are! Here we are in a warm, comfortable car, fairly flying over the road, and grumbling all the way. I can remember when a trip to Indianapolis meant, for me, a chair in a farm wagon, maybe way back over the hind wheels, and yet, even in zero weather, jolting and jouncing over fifteen miles of frozen road. I never whimpered. I was just glad all through for the chance to take the wonderful trip to the city."

A sheepish grin spread over a number of faces in her vicinity, proving that others could dig up similar memories.—Indianapolis Star.

TERRIBLE TERRY M'GOVERN DEAD

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Feb. 22.—"Terrible Terry" McGovern, ex-featherweight champion of the world, died here today in the Kings County Hospital at the age of 37.

Two days ago he applied at the hospital for medical aid, saying he was penniless, and death came to him in the charity ward as a result of pneumonia and complications. His wife was notified of his serious condition. She reached his bedside just before he took the last count.

The passing of McGovern marks finis to the career of one of the greatest, if not the greatest of all featherweight champions. In the heyday of his career McGovern was a tiger in the roped arena. He was a veritable demon of the ring for he had the fighting heart, the speed and the durability that was characteristic of all the great champions of bygone days.

As featherweight champion McGovern earned thousands of dollars. He was one of the most popular fighters who ever wore a pugilistic crown and he has often been ranked as the greatest of the great quartet of former featherweight champions of which he was a member. That quartet with, McGovern, consisted of George Dixon, the great negro, Frank Erne and Young Corbett.

That he should die in the charity ward of a hospital, broken and penniless, seems a sad twist, but like many other great fighters, McGovern threw his wealth away.

McGovern was born in Johnstown, Pa., in 1880. Had he lived until March 9 he would have been 38 years old. He was of Irish-American parentage and his given name was Joseph Terrance.

At the age of 17 he started his boxing career around his home city of Johnstown and rose rapidly as a featherweight.

In four short years he had risen to the top of the class, for it was in June of 1900 that he knocked out George Dixon in eight rounds, in this city and won the world's featherweight title.

As featherweight champion of the world McGovern earned a fortune in a few short months. He did not confine himself to his own class, for he stepped out to meet men who had an advantage on him in weight, and his terrific punches stopped every man who faced him in 1900, his one bright year as champion, in less than ten rounds.

In 1901 McGovern lost his coveted title to Young Corbett of Denver, who knocked him out in two rounds at Hartford, Ct. McGovern at that time was growing out of the featherweight class, as was Corbett, and later both stepped out of the featherweight circle to enter the lightweight division. Though Corbett fought with success as a lightweight for a time, McGovern was unable to fight his way to the top.

He continued in the ring for four years after losing his title and was active during 1903 when he attempted to win back the featherweight crown, only to take the count at the hands of Young Corbett a second time, being knocked out in eleven rounds at San Francisco.

SENATOR CHARLES HUMBERT

SENATOR ARRESTED IN FRANCE'S NOTORIOUS BOLO SCANDAL.

Recent announcements made by the French Ministry of the Interior are that Senator Charles Humbert, accused in the recent Bolo Pasha-Caillaux scandal, has been arrested. He is the proprietor of the Paris Journal, through which, it is charged, Bolo directed his pro-German and pacifist activities. He sold a big part of his interest in the Paris Journal to Bolo for $5,500,000 and according to his statement, later returned this money with the announcement that he had been deceived by the "peace" plotter, Bolo.

As It Happens Nowadays.

Once there was a poor little lame boy. Naughty playmates used to call him "Limpy" or "Gimpy."

Grown-ups used to look at him and say: "What a misfortune! What a handicap in life!"

"Gimpy" is a star comedian in the movies and every night, all over the United States, people laugh themselves sick at his "funny work." And for salary—oh, la la!

ARTILLERY ACTIVE ON AMERICAN FRONT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

With the American Army in France, Feb. 22.—American army officers who have been observing operations of the Germans from captive balloons already are immune from air sickness, resulting from the incessant tugging of the gas bag upon the hawser. Effective counter battery work was reported accomplished by the American gunners, directed by the balloon observers.

The artillery on both sides were more active all along the American front Thursday, despite rain. The weather was clearing for only a brief period in the afternoon. The "Pom-pomming" of the cannon sounded continually, detonations reverberating from both the American and German guns about evenly.

American officers say there are three German cannon massed on this sector to every two American guns. The enemy has been reinforced with some batteries from the Russian front, because some Krupp 88-millimetre shells were detected, although the 88's were superseded by 77's on the west front generally.

A two-seated armored fuselage areoplane again flew over the American front lines, shooting up cook wagons. But the plane was driven off by American machine gunners. The Boche plane flew so low that the occupants of the craft were visible. It was believed that the low flying pilots were emulating the German recently shot down, nicknamed "Fantomas" and asserted to be Walter Rutt, the cyclist. Rutt shot up the trenches along the front until killed in December.

The Germans are beginning to show activity with their trench mortars for the first time, hurling over several winged torpedoes, known as "flying pigs." They did no damage.

Seas of mud have resulted from the rain plastered soldiers coming off the trenches to rest. The Woevre clay is very sticky. But transport communication from bases was not hampered because the roads were maintained in excellent condition.

Aviators on both sides were inactive Thursday because of the rain.

Daybreak Thursday revealed that new barbed wire before the German trenches had not been strung up as intended, a working party having been discovered during the night when a barrage was ordered.

MORAN STUDENTS PLACED.

Creditable Showing Made by Graduates of Local Business College.

Having taken their places in the first line trenches on the fields of commerce and finance, the following students and graduates of Moran Business School, Fair and Main streets, are giving a good account of themselves; they are now in a position to go "over the top" and attain their goal—success in life.

Miss Elizabeth Henkel, of the commercial department, has been placed in a very desirable position in the offices of Everett & Treadwell, wholesale grocers, on Broadway, through the Moran Business Service Bureau. Miss Henkel is a graduate of Kingston High School, class of 1917.

Another high grade position recently filled by the Moran Business Service Bureau is that of bookkeeper and stenographer with the Herbert Brush Manufacturing Co., Mill street, John F. Heybruck, of the combined course, having been engaged by this firm.

Miss Hilda Terwilliger, of High Falls, a graduate of the stenographic department, has accepted an excellent position as secretary to Daniel Smiley, proprietor Lake Mohonk Mountain House, Mohonk Lake, Ulster county.

Everett Edmunds, a graduate of the commercial department, who enlisted in the Aviation Signal Corps, U. S. Army, is rendering very efficient service to Uncle Sam in the capacity of bookkeeper at one of the southern camps.

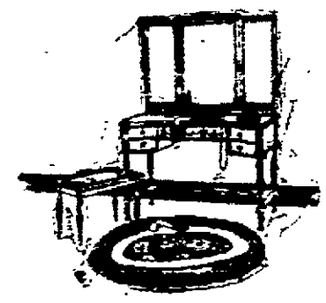

The National City Bank, 55 Wall street, New York city, one of the largest houses of finance in the country, has engaged Alvin Black, of 86 Hone street, this city, who pursued the commercial course at Moran Business School. Mr. Black is making good and has a very successful future in store for him.

Miss Charlotte House, of the combined course, has secured a position of importance in the offices of the U. T. Hungerford Brass & Copper Company, New York city.

Allen Baker, who is pursuing the night stenographic course at the Moran School, has secured a very desirable clerical position in the local freight offices of the New York Central Railroad Company, Broadway.

Raymond Cortes has accepted a good position with the Grant Motor Car Corporation, New York city.

Independence of thought and action comes to those who have saved their money against a rainy day—Buy Thrift Stamps.

Painless Dentistry

The difference between painless and painful dentistry depends upon the carefulness and skillfulness of the operator. With good instruments, fresh medicines, local anaesthetics and nitrous oxide gas a careful and skillful dentist can perform all operations painlessly, even to the extraction of teeth.

Painless methods, earnest endeavor and reasonable prices have in thirty years made the Cady Dental Corporation the largest dental organization in New York state.

EXAMPLE FOR HOME FOLKS SET BY NAVY

Uncle Sam's Fighters Taking Steps to Run Ships Along Food Conservation Lines to Keep Down Expense And Set Example

County Food Administrator William C Shafer calls attention to the efforts being made in the navy to conserve food in the following announcement

Officers in the United States Navy have taken definite steps to see that the mess on each ship is run along food conservation lines Notices have been posted on the various warships calling attention to the fact that rigid economy will be practiced in the maintenance of the mess not only for keeping down the expense but as an example of the general spirit with which the country is meeting the food crisis

In recognition therefore of this universal and nationwide movement and toward that specific end save one such notice, the following is hereby enforced Tuesdays will be known as meatless days (exclusive of Fridays when fish will be served when obtainable) Every second day war bread will be served and eggs for breakfast once or twice a week when possible It is not anticipated at the moment that there will have to be any necessary curtailment of rice and dairy (except of course reserves) or of the supply of fish

During the last year of peace [illegible] and mutton consumption was 150,000 tons a month This has been cut down to 120,000 tons a month for the year ending June 30 1917 Of the total available supplies in sufficient quantities according to the best figures obtainable now are not more than 88,000 tons a month

Where serious drop in the supplies available is officially explained

Owing to the shortage of feeding stuffs the number of cattle in this country has been appreciably reduced during the past autumn and the number fattening for slaughter has been seriously curtailed Consequently the amount of home produced beef during the first few months of 1918 will be heavily diminished At present the number of cattle coming into the markets is only about half of the number coming forward for slaughter at the same time last year This shortage in the home supplies is likely to continue until feeding on pasture becomes possible in the spring The number of sheep after allowing for seasonable changes shows a reduction of eight per cent and the number of pigs is still more heavily diminished

The serious drop in the estimated imports is due to the heavy losses of refrigerated tonnage by submarine action and by the needs of the armies

Food Administrator for Ulster Co

ELLENVILLE.

Ellenville, Feb. 21.—An article of nearly a column in a recent copy of the Brooklyn Eagle of much interest to Ellenville friends was an account of a concert given at a benefit for the Red Cross Auxiliary of the Church of the Pilgrims at the Brooklyn Woman's Club and Miss Maude Douglass Tweedy, soprano, assisted by a group of well known artists, gave the program. The fact that a section was devoted to chamber music, a trio holding forth with delightful effect made the concert individual. The soprano sang Massenet's Ouvre tes yex blevis as her first number, following it with another French song, "Il pleut des Petales de fleurs," by Rhene-Baon, contrasting them with two lyics by Treharne, "The Question," and "Pickaninl." A short expressive song by Rogers, "Not From the Whole Wide World I Choose Thee," showed the soprano ability in singing emotional songs. Ethel Watson Usher accompanied the songs and played later for the familiar "Atmosphere" song by Wekerlin. "Dormez Vous," as Miss Tweedy sang it with excellent diction and expression. Scotch sentiment was put into the fine old song, "Ye Banks and Braes O Bonnie Doon," and the new "By the Waters of Minnetonka," by Lieurance, and "Le Nil," by Leroux, with violin obligato by Florence Duryea, which was the big solo of the evening. The finale, Allego Marziale, appealed to the spirit of these times well and as the rich tones of 'cello and violin rose and fell the piano welded the tones into a whole. The entire program received very honorable mention and was greeted with marked applause by the large audience in attendance, including many noted Brooklyn people. Miss Tweedy is a soprano soloist of which much comment of praise has been given. It is her life work and her songs are in the soul. She is a cousin of John A. Tice of Center street, Ellenville, and with an aunt, Mrs. Ely, spent several weeks in Ellenville a few years ago as guests at the Low cottage at the West End and during her stay in town contributed a fine solo at the M. E. Church, which received very commendable praise as it was enjoyed by the large congregation.

Wawarsing Chapter, O. E. S., very fittingly observed flag night at their rooms Monday evening The rooms were made very attractive in the decorations of the national colors. Flags predominated. The Star degrees was conferred on five Master Masons during the evening. There was a large attendance of members of the order and a number of Master Masons present. An excellent supper was served by the ladies. Among the speakers of the evening were the Rev. H. P. Hobson, the Rev. J. E. Appley, H. W. Coons and C. B. Murray.

The storm of Tuesday and during the night did considerable damage along the Beerkill stream above Cape avenue and much damage along the Lackawack stream above Napanoch. Greater part of the dam at Shook's flour and feed mill went out and the ice below the bridge did considerable damage to those owning property on either side of stream.

Basketball between the Catskill high school team and the Ellenville high school boys will be played at Norbury Hall Thursday evening. Dancing to follow the game.

The memorial day which is a day set apart for a memorial to the loved but now sainted Frances E. Willard, is also a memorial day for members of the local union who have passed on to the heavenly home but whose memory is cherished by all the present members. At this meeting especial mention is made of the very excellent remarks of Mrs. Appley following the Scripture reading, which was from parts of 7th and 8th chapters of the book Esther.

A copy of the above census report, together with a complete sales list of all seed offered for sale by the farmers of the county with the exception of potatoes, is being mailed by the Ulster County Farm Bureau Association to every farmer who has filled out a census blank.

Persons who desire seed potatoes but do not know where they can secure them should inquire at the Farm Bureau Office, Kingston, N. Y.

The district superintendents and school teachers deserve considerable credit for the splendid co-operation that they have given the Farm Bureau and State Food Commission in securing this valuable information.

Spring Wheat and Oat Seed.

Judging from the results of the farm census it is quite evident that we will be obliged to secure a large supply of oats and spring wheat seed out of the county. The Farm Bureau is taking this matter up and will undoubtedly be able to secure a satisfactory supply.

Seed Corn.

There seems to be plenty of corn in Ulster county but a large percentage of this corn will undoubtedly be eliminated from the seed corn standard when it is tested for germination. Purchasers should insist on tested seed corn this year.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

Attend the end, and never stand in doubt.
Nothing's so hard but search will find it out.

—Herrick.

ECONOMICAL DISHES.

The tough ends of steak or bits of left-over may be used most acceptably in the following:

Chili Con Carne.—Cut up the left-over steak and put a layer of the meat in a casserole, sprinkle with chopped onion, a few spoonfuls of kidney beans and a layer of canned tomatoes, seasoning each layer with salt and chili pepper. Repeat until the casserole is filled, then turn in the liquid part of the tomatoes thickened with a little flour and butter, cover and bake an hour, then uncover and bake 20 minutes.

Mock Terrapin.—Parboil a pound of beef liver, cut in slices for five minutes, then drain and brown in bacon fat. Chop in small pieces put back the pan and add a quarter of a teaspoonful of dry mustard, salt and pepper to taste, a few drops of worcestershire sauce and boiling water if needed. Boil up, thicken with flour blended with butter, using a tablespoonful of each. Add a hard-cooked egg, finely chopped, and a few drops of lemon juice.

Canned Corn on Toast.—To each cupful of corn allow a teaspoonful of chopped onion fried in a tablespoonful of butter, do not brown; add the corn, a half cupful of milk, salt and pepper to toast. Cook slowly for five minutes. Meanwhile toast a slice of bread for each person and fry two slices of bacon for each. Pour the prepared corn over the toast from which the crusts have been removed. Serve with the bacon slices over the top.

Yorkshire Corn Pudding.—Put into a mixing bowl a cupful of canned corn, three-fourths of a cupful of milk, add two well-beaten egg yolks. Into another bowl sift a cupful of flour with three teaspoonfuls of baking powder and a half teaspoonful of salt, mix together the flour and corn, add the well-beaten whites of two eggs. Put into well-greased muffin rings and put into each a teaspoonful of the juice from the roast, fill half full with the batter and bake in a moderate oven. Serve around the meat with meat gravy.

VISCOUNT ISHII.

ISHII, CHOSEN MIKADO'S ENVOY.

Viscount Ishii has been appointed Ambassador to the United States, succeeding Aimaro Sato, who is now in Japan, unofficial advices from Tokio state. Viscount Ishii was head of the Japanese High Commission which recently visited the United States. The negotiation of the Lansing-Ishii agreement, by which the United States Government recognized certain special interests of Japan in the Orient, and removed the main obstacle to a frank and sincere understanding between the two governments is said to be the reason of Count Ishii's appointment.

Human Peculiarity.

It is interesting to read in the Journal of Heredity: "The remarkable grasping power of a new-born infant is cited as the survival of a trait that possessed life-and-death importance in the treetops. Finally with reference to the much-talked-about upright position the author remarks succinctly that 'the human child sits up before it stands; the human stock sat up before it stood.'"

Had Supply in Reserve.

Mother had just finished washing her hair, when our neighbor entered. "My," she exclaimed, "you have beautiful hair." Charlie, who was standing near, broke out saying: "Well, dat's not all; she has more in on de dresser."—Chicago Tribune.

BOYS OF '61 HOLD ANNUAL REUNION

Only 29 Veterans of the One Hundred and Twentieth Regiment at the Annual Washington's Birthday Reunion.

Twenty-nine veterans of the One Hundred and Twentieth Regiment met for the annual reunion of the regiment at the Stuyvesant Hotel at noon today.

In the absence of President Jerry Young, the meeting was called to order by Vice President William H Hiseerd.

After an informal discussion by a number of the members it was decided to change the date of the annual meeting from Washington's Birthday to August 22, which is the date of the annual midsummer reunion. On account of the change in date, it was decided that at the annual reunion hereafter each comrade shall bring his wife or sweetheart.

"Nobody can say that any comrade has not had a sweetheart," said one of the veterans who spoke in favor of the change. "If any comrade hasn't a wife he still has a sweetheart, and she should be here."

The principal reason for making the change is the difficulty which many of the comrades experience in getting to Kingston on Washington's birthday on account of weather conditions.

Died Since Last Meeting.

Three comrades were reported to have died since the last annual meeting. They were:

James H Terwilliger, at Rochester, April 10, 1917.

GERMAN LEADER BUYS LIBERTY BONDS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Feb. 22.—Von Bethmann-Hollweg, former chancellor of Germany, has invested in Liberty Bonds. It's quite probable he doesn't know anything about it yet, and it might grieve him were he to hear of it, but it's a fact, and happened this way:

The alien property custodian's agent in charge of the former chancellor's belongings at Waco, Tex., has already invested some of the income in Liberty Bonds, and now has asked that the total—some $75,000 a year—be subscribed. This will be done and the former chancellor's approval awaited.

Red Cross Gifts to U. S. Nurses.

During the fall and winter there has come in to the Red Cross headquarters on Broadway, two fine knitted blankets; one from Mohonk and one from Woodstock. In addition so many squares had been knitted that the ladies of the Parent-Teachers' Association on School No. 8 knit them together, making the third blanket. When Miss Margaret O'Connor, Miss Joyce and Miss Kathleen Fadian were recently in town, wearing their U. S. Army nurses' uniform, the Red Cross presented each one of the young ladies with one of the blankets, greatly to their delight, and it has since been learned to the envy of their sister nurses of the Bellevue Hospital Unit.

279 Instead of 217 Pupils.

Through an error it was stated in Thursday's Freeman that St. Peter's School had been enrolled as a Red Cross Auxiliary, with every child a member, to the number of 217. It should have been 279, instead of 217.

Indians of Chile.

The Araucanians are the primitive race of Chile, and one of the finest of all the American Indian tribes. Although the remaining Indians are wards of the government not unlike those in this country, the tribe is said never to have been formally conquered. Furthermore, the blood of the Araucanians is widely disseminated and gives to the Chilean people their distinctive character.

Would Welcome Age.

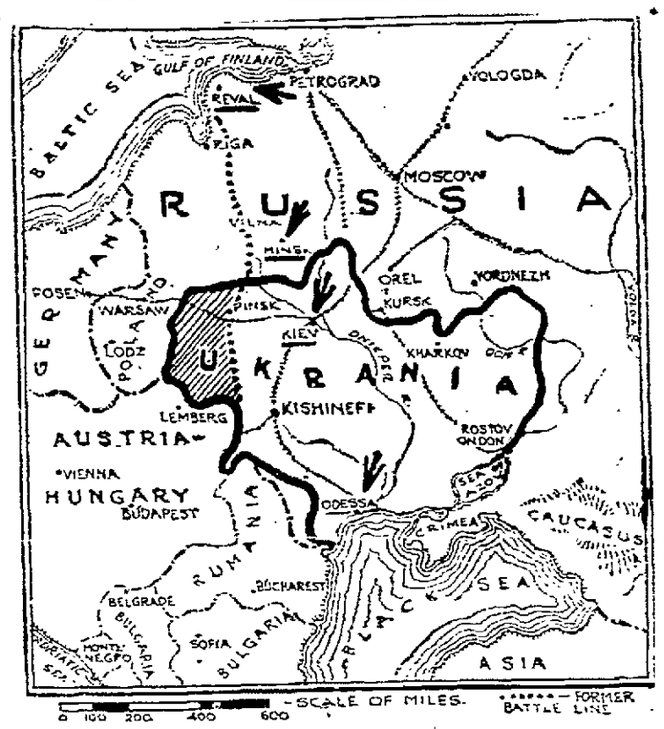

Gladys had red hair and the school children liked to tease her about it. The teacher, finding her almost in tears, tried to comfort her. But Gladys pouted and said: "I'll be glad when I get to be an old lady." Her teacher, puzzled, asked why she was in a hurry to grow old. "Then my old red hair will just have to turn gray," was the startling answer.

Playing It on Father.

She—Papa says he will pay half the cost of furnishing a house for us.

He—But how about the other half?

She—Don't be a goose! Of course we'll pick out a lot of nice things, get papa's check for half of the bill, and then go back and select things only half as expensive.—Boston Transcript.

HOW RUSSIA IS THREATENED. MAP SHOWING THE FOUR PRINCIPAL CENTERS IN WHICH THE BOLSHEVIKI ARE FORCED TO FIGHT.

The arrows show where military operations are forced on the peace-loving Bolsheviki. The Germans are advancing on Reval, capital of the Baltic province of Esthonia. At Minsk a Bolsheviki army inflicted a crushing defeat on the revolting Polish Legion. Kiev, capital of the new world power, Ukrainia, has been captured by the Red Guards, or Bolsheviki warriors. Sanguinary civil war is also occurring at Odessa, chief city of the Crimea. Hundreds are reported killed. The shaded portion of the map shows the Polish territory ceded to Ukrania by the Central Powers. The dotted line is the former battle front.

Apartment House Story.

On one side of the hall in the new apartment building lived Mr. and Mrs. Smithers; on the other side of the hall lived two girls who taught in the public schools and who were having their first experience in "batching it." Mrs. Smithers didn't know them very well, but she took a motherly interest in them to the extent of hoping that they had enough to eat and that their necessarily hasty and amateurish spreads would not give them indigestion.

The other day, out of the kindness of her heart, she took them a batch of fresh biscuits she had just baked, and one or two other wholesome trifles. And while she was there, she showed them how to use the stove, gave them some hints on marketing, wrote down a lot of recipes for simple viands, and gave them a lecture on food values and the preparation of leftovers.

They were very grateful to the dear lady, and they told us all about it. And they made us promise solemnly that we would never tell her that they were teachers of domestic science.

Jiujitsu for Girls.

Japanese women never have the backache, are rarely stoop-shouldered and in endurance equal their brothers. One of the reasons given for this is that the Japanese girls are taught jiujitsu wrestling and are made to feel proud of their athletic prowess. Grown men and women practice their jiujitsu together and it is not infrequent that the man is worsted.

RESTORE CAUCUS AND CONVENTION

Senator Walton Believes Primary Law Does Not Accomplish Purpose Intended and Its Operation Is Expensive—Favors Change.

The bill to amend the primary law by restoring the state convention will be introduced in the state legislature at Albany on Monday night.

Senator Elon R. Brown, leader of the senate, has appointed a committee of nine to draft the amendments and regarding their work the Albany correspondent of the New York Tribune says:

"Two of the Republican members, Senator Charles W. Walton of Ulster and James E. Towner of Dutchess bolted. They informed the committee that they were against repealing the direct primary."

The precise position of Senator Walton is not made clear by The Tribune's statement quoted above. Senator Walton's position is more clearly stated in the following letter to the Hon. John H. Francis, editor of The Troy Times, which was published by that newspaper. Senator Walton in that letter says:

"I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your favor relative to the direct primary law, and to assure you that in my opinion it does not accomplish the purpose it was believed it would, and in operation is expensive. I am in favor of the caucus and convention method of nominating candidates for office, and shall vote to amend or repeal the law so as to bring about that result.

"Very truly yours,
"CHARLES W. WALTON."

IMAGINARY FOOD ALL RIGHT

Good Reason Why It Was Particularly Adapted for the Sustenance of the Kil-ma-roo.

James G. Blaine used to tell a story to illustrate the imaginary character of the predictions of his enemies to the effect that he would be a radical president if elected to that office and would get the country into all kinds of trouble.

According to this story, a man on a ferry boat from time to time would cautiously open a box which he carried, to peep inside and then quickly push the lid back into place. The curiosity of a naturalist who sat near him was raised to such a pitch that at length, after the man had looked into the box about the tenth time, he approached and said:

"Pardon me, sir; but I would like to know what strange thing you have in that box."

"I'd rather not tell you," replied the other. "Other people would soon know all about it."

"It isn't a savage animal, is it?" asked the naturalist.

"That's just what it is," replied the man, once more lifting the lid and peeping in cautiously.

"What is the name of the creature?"

"Well, sir, it's a kil-ma-roo, from the center of Africa. One of the most savage animals ever discovered; a regular man-eater and—"

"What food do you give it?"

"Nothing but snakes."

"And where do you find snakes enough to satisfy the appetite of such a monster?"

"My brother, he drinks a good deal, and often has delirium tremens. When he gets to seeing snakes all we've got to do is catch 'em and—"

"See here, what are you giving me? Those are only imaginary snakes; I'd like to know how you can feed a savage, voracious animal on imaginary snakes."

"Don't breathe a word to anyone," said the man, lowering his voice, and looking about cautiously, "but the fact is, this is an imaginary kil-ma-roo."

Where Eider Ducks Abound.

Eider ducks are numerous everywhere in Norway. Being the producers of the valuable eiderdown, a staple article of trade in Norway, they are rigorously protected by law, and are in consequence so tame as in many places to approximate a domestic fowl. The birds are regarded with far from friendly eyes by the fishermen, by reason of the damage they work among the spawning beds of the fish. Lobsters in particular suffer severely from their devastations.

PIGEONS TO BE BIG FACTORS IN THE WAR

Fanciers Finally Recognized as Devotees of Sport.

Uncle Sam to Be Furnished With 200,000 Messengers—Birds Are Considered Particularly Reliable for Military Work.

Scoffed at and scorned by sportsmen for a score or more of years—ever since the raising of prize pigeons entitled a man to the title of sportsman—Ohio fanciers of homing pigeons at last have been awarded notice among the ranks of devotees of more popularly accepted sporting pastimes.

It remained with the pigeon raisers to furnish the United States one of the most important instruments of warfare necessary to the successful operations in the trenches.

Sometime next summer when the big push starts "over there" Ohio carrier pigeons will bring back to headquarters through barrage fire and machine gun bullets—if they are lucky—messages from observers in airplanes and from men stationed in listening posts far out in front of the front line trenches.

Already more than 7,000 birds of the highest class have been ordered by the war department for delivery at an Atlantic port on a certain date, the exact time of which is kept secret for military reasons.

By next fall, according to Dr. J. C. Simon, secretary of the American Racing Pigeon association, 200,000 first-class carriers will be available for service overseas. The pigeons being taken are considered by Doctor Simon to be particularly reliable in the matter of returning speedily to the spot which marks their present home.

No recruit going into the National army goes under closer scrutiny than do the pigeons accepted, according to officials of the association. Government inspectors scan the registry cards of each entry, after examining the bird to see wether he or she is healthy and accept only those whose parents and grandparents made exceptional records in speed contests.

Fatigue.

"Isn't there a great deal of fatigue attached to speechmaking?"

"Yes," replied Senator Sorghum. "I have had a number of people tell me my speeches made them tired."

PRESENCE.

O mother—mother of mine—
What a wonderful mother you are!
High in the midnight heaven
Quivers a cool white star—
I feel your hand on my forehead,
I see the light of your smile—
I am sleepy, mother—
I shall forget—for awhile.

Hark! There the guns have awakened.
Madly they stammer and roar—
Shaking their hungry impatience—
Gluttonous lions of war.
Seventy yards through the clamor,
Under a curtain of fire,
Wet with the mists of the morning,
Glimmers the German wire.

"Charge!" through the throbbing silence,
After the crash and boom,
Into the pallid daybreak—
Over the edge of doom
Low on the far horizon
Trembles a faint white star—
O mother—mother of mine—
What a beautiful mother you are!

Use of Calling Cards and Answering of Formal Notes

There is usually a very good reason for all the different social etiquettes, and you can usually figure it out all by yourself. Take, for instance, the question of calling cards. Many persons are in doubt as to the number of cards they should leave. The answer is, according to an authority, to leave as many cards as there are persons that you wish to see and are indebted to. It is the only thoughtful thing to do and exactly what you would naturally do if you were not convinced that etiquette is tricky.

Another thing that seems to puzzle is the answering of formal notes. If you receive a formal note, answer it formally, and make your sparing as much like the note you received as possible.

There is nothing mysterious about it. If you are polite and thoughtful and use your mind a bit you can never go far wrong. The instinct for the courteous thing can easily be cultivated and it is essential in every walk of life.

POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT.

The New York State Federation of Labor, following the lead of the American Federation of Labor, is now and always has been opposed to the principle of prohibition in the liquor industry. At a conference of representatives of Unions of the State at Albany, January 8th, 1918, to formulate a Declaration of Purposes, it was declared: "The substitution of the sale of liquor, light wines, cider and beers, produced and dispensed under Federal, State and Municipal regulations, for prohibition, either by local option, State laws or National amendments." The Organized Labor Movement has taken this position from a purely business standpoint—to save thousands of wage-earners in the crafts which are affected from being forced out of employment and thrown into an already overcrowded field of industry, a field which, owing to long service in their chosen industry, they are unfitted to successfully compete. This condition would be a menace to present labor conditions and standards.

The so-called reformers, who advocate prohibition, have secured legislative consent to hold elections in April of this year to vote on the question of prohibiting the sale of liquor, light wines and beers. We contend these elections in the various localities of this State are entirely unnecessary for the reason that there is now before the people of the State the question of Nation-wide Prohibition. If this proposition is acted on affirmatively, it will set aside any decision that may be arrived at by any locality in this State. In the great battle now being waged for world-wide Democracy it will need every dollar and every effort on the part of the people to win. The proposed special elections will cost vast sums of money and will result only in discord among the people of the State. Is it worth while? Why not husband all our resources for the successful prosecution of the war and let the question of prohibition be settled by the National amendment now before the States of the Union?

Before these elections in April can be held they must have the consent of a certain number of enrolled voters. We advise all our members to refrain from signing petitions for this purpose because of the great cost to the people for holding elections. The money better be put into Liberty Bonds to help the Government in this hour of great need.

A committee was appointed to advise our members and the public just what this movement means to them and to their fellow trade unionists who would be affected, and to urge upon them to use their influence to discourage the holding of Local Option elections this spring.

GREETED HIM WITH A SMOOTHING IRON

That is Reception Charles Blankschan Said He Got When He Came Home and Found Company There—Sleight Raised a Rumpus.

Charles Blankschan of Rogers street, and Charles Sleight, a painter residing on Franklin street, were both arrested on Thursday by the police department. Mr. Blankschan was arrested by Sergeant Hanley on a warrant sworn out by his wife, and the other Charles went home that day drunk and raised a rumpus and was arrested by Officer Simpson.

Mr. Blankschan when arrested by Sergeant Hanley at his home downtown was found in bed by the sergeant with a towel wrapped around his head. Mr. Blanschan complained of being severely ill, but that did not prevent him from spending the night at the county jail.

This morning he was arraigned before Judge Schirick. His wife was present in court to press the complaint against her husband.

When the charge was read Mr. Blanschan promptly pleaded not guilty and turning around to where his wife sat he said "Now you started this thing I am going to see to it that the ball is kept rolling." He informed the court that when he came home Thursday he found his wife had company. Two men from Ulster Park were at the house. He said they tried to tell him how to run his house and his wife greeted him with a smoothing iron.

Mr. Blankschan said he was tired of having his wife leave home in the afternoon and never show up until 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning.

"That is a mistake your honor" interrupted Mrs. Blankschan and she further said she always made it a point to catch the last trolley car home. All she wanted she said was for her husband to stop misusing her.

Mrs. Blankschan said that Mrs. Fred Vail and her daughter, Miss Ethel Blankschan had witnessed the assault.

Judge Schirick held the case open until later in the day so that Mrs. Vail and Miss Ethel could be summoned as witnesses.

Sleight Raised Rumpus.

Charles Sleight was discharged with a warning by Judge Schirick. It was stated that Mrs. Sleight did not care to press the charge against her husband From what the police say Sleight came home drunk and raised a rumpus in the house and finally got out on the street in front of the house and was continuing his performance until Officer Simpson shut him off by locking him up. Sleight is said to have been drum major for a local drum corps.

LIBERTY LOAN MEDAL PRESENTED TO PUPIL

District Superintendent John F. Gillette of Port Ewen, presenting Liberty Loan medal to Gertrude Auchmoody, a student in the Highland high school, recently, spoke as follows:

Principal Marsh, Ladies and Gentlemen:

I have been delegated by the state commissioner of education to present a bronze medal to the high school student of Ulster county who has written and presented the best essay based upon the "Source Book of the Second Liberty Loan," under rules furnished by the Liberty Loan Committee; but before I enter upon that pleasant task permit me to rejoice with you upon the splendid and timely patriotic rhetoricals to which it has been our extreme pleasure to listen.

Taking part, as this country is, in the great world struggle for human freedom, the patriotic exercises of your student body have made an unusual impression upon us all. We are made more conscious of the grandeur of our possessions, of the heroic in our history, of the fascinations in our traditions, of the resources of our nation, and our unwavering devotions to American ideals.

It is indeed appropriate and timely that a program, such as we have listened to, should be rendered between the days set apart to commemorate the birthdays of our two greatest Americans, Washington and Lincoln, the one gave us our republic and the other preserved it. Besides these men, there are many others, of Revolutionary and Civil War fame, whose names are emblazoned in letters of gold upon the pages of American history. There is Washington, Putnam, and Greene; Lincoln, Grant and Sherman; there is now the scholarly Wilson, the judicial Taft, and the heroic Roosevelt all united in a common cause.

Let us look at their places in human history. Look over the pages of the past. They are full of warriors and statesmen. Look at Caesar, of the majestic intellectual stature, but beneath his feet was the dying Roman republic. Look at Napoleon, grand and gloomy, a sceptered hermit, but over his throne and over his fields were written "Selfish Ambition." I see back on the Alps stout, old Hannibal, but his followers were marauders feasting on the spoils of cruel victory, while the spirit which spurred their leader to deeds of historic splendor was "Revengeful Hatred." We behold today a ruler of one of the central empires waving the torch of destruction, sacrificing his countrymen by the tens of thousands, applying the great industrial and scientific achievements of forty years to subject the world, but here stand our heroes on the summit of their unprecedented deeds who, having brought a nation into being, preserved its integrity, and are now fighting the battles of the world for liberty and true democracy.

Miss Auchmoody, not only to diffuse general information regarding the second Liberty Loan and to call forth the best literary production was this medal offered, but to encourage and perpetuate the spirit of our forefathers. You have earned the medal offered by the Liberty Loan Committee for the best essay written by a high school student from any of the high schools in Ulster county under regulations prescribed by the Regents.

I have been requested by Commissioner Finley to present this medal to you and to extend to you his congratulations and best wishes. You will observe that the type form of this medal is a shield, and on the front side in bold relief is Miss Liberty with outstretched hand and open palm, into which a youth is dropping his offering. On the reverse side, also in relief, is a representation of "The Liberty Bell," and the words "Awarded for First Prize" also "Every School is a National Center as Well as a Community Center."

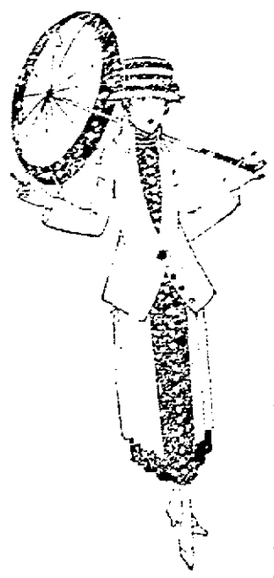

You have not only brought honor to yourself, but to your schoolmates, your teachers, your board of education, and the people of your community, many of whom are here tonight to rejoice with you.

I take great pleasure in presenting to you a medal, and I fancy that as you journey along the highway of life, long after the object for which your essay was writen, has been attained, your mind will revert to the scenes of your literary effort, and that the picture of tonight will occupy a conspicuous place in the album of your memory.

16 YEAR OLD BOY SENTENCED TO DIE IN CHAIR.

Paul Chapman, 16 year old Brooklyn choir boy, has been sentenced to die in the electric chair at Sing Sing during the week beginning April 1, after conviction for murder. When discovered the burglars started shooting, killing Mr. Regensburg and his brother, Samuel, and wounding Mrs. Regensburg. Hugh Davis, one of the youths who accompanied Chapman, was shot and killed by policemen the same night. Leonidas Davis, brother of Hugh Davis, is awaiting trial on the same charge.

Was Anxious to Know.

One evening while the family were seated in the living room the conversation was mostly on the subject of guardianship for the grandfather, and several times it became quite a heated debate, which greatly impressed the little three-year-old, Irene. The next morning upon opening her little brown eyes, she sat upright in bed and said: "Mamma, did they get that guardian tied on grandpa yet?"

Naturally.

"Was that Indian scraping story thrilling?"

"Thrilling? It was a genuine hair-raiser!"
